

Name _____
Date _____
Hour _____
Due _____

Chapter 18 Progressive Era 1895-1915
Anticipation Guide

1. T/F There was little evidence that there was growing tension between the “haves” and “have nots” at the dawn of the twentieth century.

2. T/F Progressivism had many goals that pertained only to the plight of the immigrant.

3. T/F Teddy Roosevelt continued previous presidents’ practices when it came to big business and labor disputes.

4. T/F The Progressive Party’s attempt at the presidency in 1912 had an unintended result.

5. T/F President Wilson’s New Freedom passed numerous laws in favor of small businesses.

6. T/F John Muir and Teddy Roosevelt were similar on ideals concerning protecting the environment from abuse.

7. T/F Industrialist attempted to undercut the rise of unions by using many methods, such as the collective bargaining.

8. T/F Henry Ford demanded much from his workers, but in return gave them tremendous amount of influence on their working conditions.
9. T/F Labor unions continued to disagree on memberships and tactics during the Progressive Era.
10. T/F Working conditions and the length of hours appeared to be improving for the industrial worker due mostly in part of the court system.
11. T/F There was ample opportunity for women to contribute to the changes brought on by the Progressive Movement.
12. T/F Child labor declined due to general acceptance that children should dedicate their time to education and play, not work.
13. T/F Upton Sinclair's book played a major role in the food policy of this nation.
14. T/F There was major strides in curtailing corruption in government.
15. T/F NAACP was a direct result of Booker T. Washington's approach to achieving equality.

