

Chapter 2 Models of Settlement
Anticipation Guide

1. T/F The Spanish were the biggest hindrance for the British establishing a foothold in the New World.

2. T/F John Smith played a trivial role in the founding of Jamestown.

3. T/F Sir Edwin Sandy's contributions to Virginia were more important than John Rolfe's social role.

4. T/F Lord Baltimore's Maryland was comparable to Virginia in all aspects.

5. T/F Women would not have enjoyed life in the Chesapeake region.

6. T/F William Bradford was not an original member of the Mayflower Compact nor did he support their principles.

7. T/F The "City Upon the Hill" differed from the Chesapeake colonies in all ways except it's desire for profit.

8. T/F Ann Hutchinson posed a greater menace to the Puritan Orthodoxy than Roger Williams.

9. T/F Slave labor was preferred over indentured servitude in the Sugar Colonies because of the complex agreements of servitude.

10. T/F The Dutch offered no threat to the English plans along the eastern tidewater thus they were ignored completely.

11. T/F William Penn followed the standard pattern in creating his colony for religious toleration.

12. T/F The Carolinas mirrored the success of the Sugar Colonies of the Caribbean by implementing a stringent slave code.

13. T/F Bacon's Rebellion was a major threat to the crown and it displayed major problems within indentured servitude.

14. T/F King James II's goal of creating an administrative structure like New France was to some extent achieved with the creation of the Dominion of New England.

15. T/F The Salem Witch Trials came to a violent conclusion after the young women admitted in being possessed by demons.