

8. T/F The horrific middle passage was similar for all individuals forced into slavery.

9. T/F Slavery in the lower and upper South tended to be quite different from each other solely due to the geography.

10. T/F Slaves rarely resisted their white masters thus the Stono Rebellion was an anomaly.

11. T/F Most of the African culture and traditions survived under slavery due to the slave codes.

12. T/F The New England, Mid-Atlantic, and Back Country regions shared little in common with upper and lower South.

13. T/F There is little evidence suggesting that urban and rural society was becoming unequal during the 18th Century.

14. T/F The War of Jenkin's Ear was the most important European War in the conquest of North America.

15. T/F All violence came to an end in North American once the French and British signed the Treaty of Paris in 1863.

Indians benefited from the relationship with British created in the Middle Ground.